Ralph

Ralph algebra class was alot of fun.
Hope you're in one of my classes next year.

Best of Luck,
Joan Rhynes

Good Luck
Remember Latin
Gene Fisher

Loads of luck to you, Ralph.
Be good and I'll see you next fall Ralph,
if not sooner.

Good Luck in out Martin the future and I hope all of your classes will be as interesting as Biology was.

Hail Alma Mater

Hi Ralph. We've certainly had great times together—
first in algebra, now in Latin.
Hope to see you again next year. Best wishes -

Dear Ralph,
I hope you got as much fun
out of Latin as I did.
Even if I did have some trouble.

Hi Percy
 Maybe you can teach me how to play the clarinet next year. Had fun in I band this year. Be good now —
 Helen Schettle

A school is known by its spirit and by the accomplishments of its graduates, and, fortunately for Oshkosh, not by its buildings. Each student contributes to the greatness of a school as he lays the foundation for his own success. It is my hope that every student will endeavor to raise the reputation of the Oshkosh High School even higher than the enviable position it now holds.

Perry A. Tipler

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

The NOTEBOOK! What an opportunity for one of my ilk to play with words. Putting temptation behind me, I will say that this year has been a memorable one for all of us because of certain "notes" which were sounded. The first and foremost to us, I'm sure, was the doleful one rendered when we heard that Mr. Fell was to be on leave of absence. Then the spirit of music as exemplified by the close harmony of humans working together to make the school as worthwhile, profitable, and enjoyable as possible was apparent and definitely helped over the rough spots. Now and then a slightly rancid note might have been heard, but it soon disappeared in the chorus of cooperation and was lost.

My fervent hope is that such a spirit will continue for all — graduates, students, and faculty — and eventually, through the harmonious effort of each little note, spread far and wide to bring a better world for all.

ART AND PRINTING

Gather 'round, all ye fellow artists of O.H.S. while the Art and Printing departments take the spotlight. If you have any talent buried behind a mass of paint-spattered cob-webs of doubt, enroll in the art class. Beginning and advanced students explore every phase of art possible in the time allowed. Some of the subjects touched upon are sketching, charcoal and pastel work, water color, pen and ink, poster making, figure drawing, design, and many other "art" interests. In class everyone is encouraged to go along at his own rate of speed — which makes everything nice, including your creations! So . . . whenever you see kids trudging up to the art room, bending over their drawing boards, or lugging sketch books around, don't laugh — they may be our future Rembrants, Gainsboroughs, or Hattie Carneigies! . . . The printing classes this year are open only to boys because boys are more apt to enter that profession. . . . The work of the course is in two main fields, composition and press work, with their many branches — proof-reading, stock cutting and binding, distribution, proofing, and linotype. Besides printing the numerous school forms, the boys may print their own personalized stationery, napkins, book marks, and other things that roll off the presses with the pomp and grandeur of a professional print-job. The INDEX, and STUDENT PRINTS are done by the department and the quality of their workmanship speaks for itself. . . . Like the art room, the print shop is fascinating down to the last detail. You hate to leave and face the drab reality of a regular classroom. . . . So, hats off to the teachers of art and printing for adding the artistic touch to O.H.S.!

Raw recruits in any of the four courses offered by the Commercial Department are transformed, after three years into chic stenographers and capable young business men. The Stenographic, Bookkeeping, and Business Academic courses are arranged to meet college requirements, but they offer special training in all commercial subjects. . . . In the stenography and office practice classes students get experience with real life situations including practice on the many types of office machinery. . . . The goal of everyone in the course is the Castle-Lade award which is presented annually to best best all-round commercial student. Phyllis Rehbein received the award in June, 1946 while the winner in the January, 1947 class was William Troudt. . . . We understand the department plans to offer a new class — just by way of rounding off the course: How to Marry the Boss (or the Boss' daughter, as the case may be!)

To teach students to express their thoughts and opinions in good, clear English and to lead them into an understanding and an enjoyment of literature are the goals of the English department. . . . For those individuals with special interests or aptitudes the department offers such extra courses as Dramatics, Public Speaking, Creative Writing, Journalism, and Oral Interpretation, while speech correction classes give personal help to all students who have any type of speech handicap.

Some of the most interesting studies added to the high school curriculum since the read-
'in', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic days have been the social sciences. Among those offered in our school are the twin subjects, sociology and psychology, which really get down to cases on man and manners, and their first cousins, economics and world government. . . . Geographies are members of the family tree, too. Physical geography covers the surface, while world geography centers on the human element, and the geography of Latin America helps us to know our neighbors to the south . . . The History department tries to inculcate in the boys and girls of today a deeper respect for our democracy through the study of United States history, Ancient, Medieval, Modern, and World history. The activities of the classes are many and varied. Current events keeps the students informed about what goes on in the world, occasional movies illustrate various phases of the course, and trips to the city museum are planned whenever possible . . . Today emphasis is being placed by the history department on the fact that there is but one world and that we must all work together to build a lasting peace.

HOME ECONOMICS

"What's cookin', boys?" would be a fitting question around the cooking room in the Home Economics department. The class in Boys' Foods — discontinued during the war — has been resumed, with a larger enrollment than ever. There is no doubt that the class is harboring several potential chefs! . . . Foods III, or Foods of all Nations, is one of the most interesting classes offered. We are convinced that such a course in all schools would do a lot to improve international relationships . . . The Dietetics course is elected by many girls who are expecting to enter nurse's training . . . The clothing course is divided into four semesters with the work growing progressively difficult. In the first semester the girls start making simple garments, the second semester they devote to working with wool, while in the Sewing III and IV the girls concentrate on making coats and suits. There are, of course, many related subjects in the art of dressmaking. The classes study line and design, they learn about color in relation to personality, and they give a great deal of thought to the question of appropriate dress. Occasionally, if there's time, the girls even pick up a few hints on interior decoration.

LANGUAGES

Students who take Latin learn that it is not the dead language many people think it is. They learn, instead, that it is as much alive today as it was in the time of the Romans. Students discover the influence of Latin in many of our customs, in our government, our architecture, and most particularly in our English language. That is why four years of Latin are offered in our high school . . . Anyone who plans a graduation trip to Mexico or a cruise to South America would do well to brush up on his Espanol by taking the two-year Spanish course offered at O. H. S. Highlights of the course are a Spanish newspaper featuring interesting articles about South America, a Spanish issue of the Reader's Digest, as well as Spanish jokes and crossword puzzles . . . The lonely G. I. with the occupation troops will tell you that French can come in mighty handy. After the French course at O. H. S. it won't take long to get acquainted in Paris and we guarantee that your conversation will not be limited to "l' amour, toujours l' amour" — unless you want it to be! . . . German is not a hard course for those many Oshkosh students brought up in homes where that language is spoken, but for those who have no German background it is a different story. It's worth the effort, however, for anyone who plans to enter one of the professions where a knowledge of German is almost essential. These classes, too, subscribe to a newspaper, "Die Jugendpost".

LIBRARIES

Our school is blessed with an excellent library system. As a matter of fact, it is so complete that one room can't possibly house all of its facilities, so there are really three separate and distinct libraries: The Reference, which contains 7,334 books; the Periodical, which subscribes to 97 magazines and seven newspapers; and the Text, which holds — well, you count 'em, we stopped after the first million. . . The use to which these materials are put is reflected in the fact that in 1946 104,118 students used the libraries during school hours and the overnight circulation figures ran to 32,811 books and magazines.

High school students are beginning to realize that in this day and age Mathematics is taking on a new importance. Consequently, many more students than ever before are taking advantage of the variety of extra Math. courses offered at O. H. S. Algebra and Geometry are, of course, required for college entrance, but those who are not college minded may take Applied or Shop Math to work off the requirement for graduation . . . It is interesting that many girls are enrolling in the special mathematics courses — Advanced Algebra, Solid Geometry, Trigonometry — when only a short time ago a girl in advanced math was as much of a novelty as a boy in a sewing class. But now — why, they've even solved the mystery of the slide rule!

Intramural sports play a big part in the Physical Education program for both boys and girls. There are class leagues in basketball, volleyball, and indoor baseball. There are badminton contests, ping-pong matches, relay races, and many low-organized games. And, of course, there are posture-building, calisthenic drills. In the boys' groups there are tests for strength and for athletic skills while the girls' classes learn a wide variety of folk dances . . . This year, for the first time, O. H. S. has a registered nurse on its staff and the nurse's office works closely with the Phy. Ed. department toward their common goal — health education. The objectives of the Health department are these: 1. To develop an appreciation on the part of every student of his responsibility to prevent accidents and to maintain good health. 2. To promote the well-being of the student with particular consideration given to his physical, mental, family, and environmental health . . . The specific duties of the nurse include: checking the condition of all students absent because of illness, treatment of acute conditions, informal health instruction, and the examination of all students taking Physical Education.

SCIENCE

From the time a student enters O. H. S. until the day he graduates, science plays an important part in his life. In Sophomore Biology he begins with the study of natural history, learns to do a bit of "surgery" on a frog, and finishes off with a study of the human body . . . As a Junior scientist, he spends his time hovering over a test tube or a Bunsen burner in the Chemistry lab. He often conducts his own experiments, which include everything from making oxygen to hydrochloric acid, until he feels exactly like Einstein's "man Friday" . . . Our Senior scientist acquires an extra gray hair or two trying to prove Archimedes principle or Lenz's law, for Physics is a mathematical science in which one learns about electricity, gravity, electrons, molecular forces, heat, et cetera. Most experiments are directed toward working practical problems . . . Psychology, the mental science, is a study of the qualities which make one person different from another. Child, adult, social, abnormal, and animal psychology are taught and applied in this science, and the classes make occasional trips to the State Hospital for mental cases.

The scene is a pep meeting . . . the Rec. is overflowing . . . the footlights go on . . . the band plays an introduction . . . a hush comes over the crowd . . . the curtain slowly (by jerks) opens . . . then — a roar goes up to the rafters and the skit is on! Laugh, laughs, and tons of 'em Alpha Kappa can take a well-deserved bow for lending that added touch to the pep meetings.

The society sponsors one of the real events of the school season, the crowning of the May Queen. In addition to the planning and preparation of this festive event, the girls enjoy programs at each meeting as well as occasional parties.

If, by chance, you happen to drop in on a group of dignified, business-like young women, you'll know they're Commercial Club girls. Business men and women are guest speakers at many of their meetings but the girls take an active part, too, by putting on several one-act plays during the course of a year. A club paper rolls off the presses regularly and the group takes many field trips which are of interest to this particular activity . . . All this and bowling, too! The team bowls after school and, strike or no strike, it's fun!!

A cup from the commercial group was presented to the school some time ago. Anyone who types sixty words a minute with fewer than ten errors gets her name engraved on it. It's an honor for an outstanding achievement. The Commercial Club deserves bouquets of praise for its business-like attitude.

One of the most active and important clubs at O. H. S. is the Future Farmers of America. All through the year a very interesting and complete program of projects is carried out along many different lines.

The early fall months were occupied chiefly in planning the annual fall festival that took place in November. The festival was highlighted by the rural school corn contest and the coronation of the Corn King, Floyd Grundy, who had raised the highest yield of corn in the past year. New members were initiated into the club and each one started work on his individual project for the year.

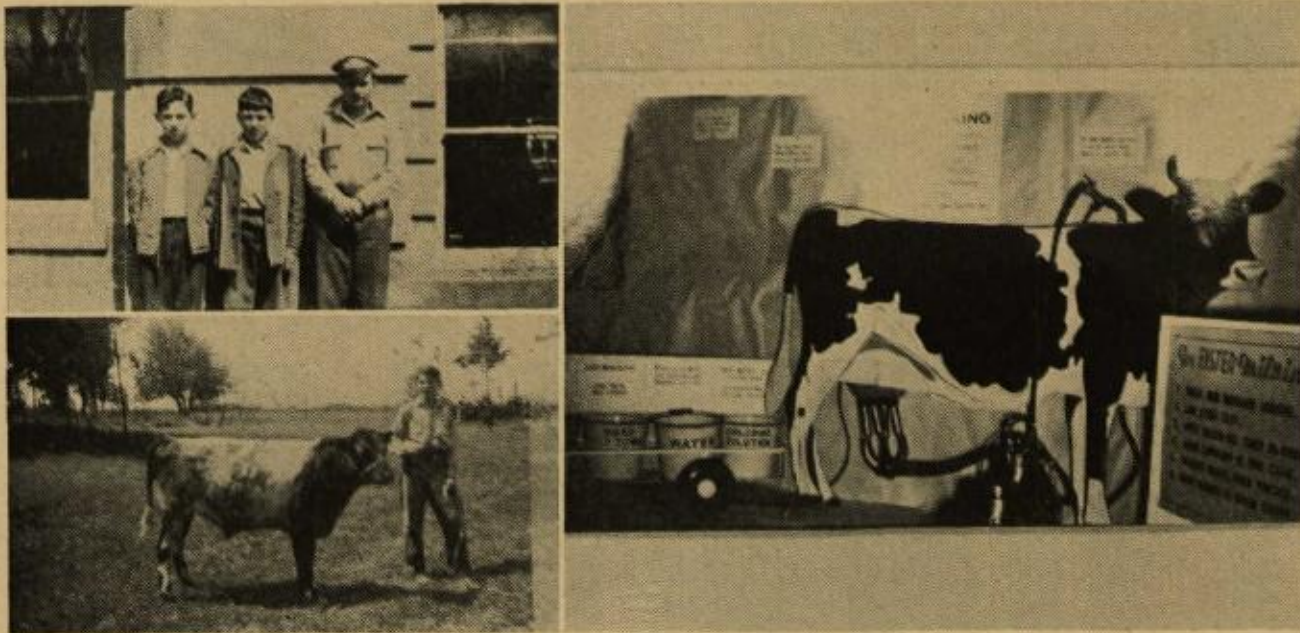

In December the basketball team was organized, and plans were made for the annual Parent-Son banquet to be held at the end of January. At this banquet an award was presented to the Senior who had developed the most outstanding farm program during the previous year. Marvin Koplitz was the winner of the 1947 award.

March was another busy month. The public speaking contest of the local chapter and the annual Fox River Valley F. F. A. basketball tournament were the headliners. Plans were made for the annual Rural School judging contest and annual Egg Show and contest which highlighted the month of April. Another interesting and worthwhile April project was the planting of pine trees distributed by the State Agricultural Department.

The school term closed with the spring dance, election of officers for the coming year, and the presentation of awards to outstanding members of the club on award day.

One of the few clubs active during the summer, F. F. A. will take part in the county fair as well as many other interesting summer projects. The officers who have guided F. F. A. through 1946-1947 are:

The Girls' Athletic Association is a "fun" club from which no girl with athletic interests is barred. Girls who join learn how to participate in and to enjoy all types of sports. Intramural contests are scheduled in field hockey, volleyball, basketball, and ping-pong. Members who win recognition in these contests are presented with special awards.

Gamma Sigma Kappa, organized in 1923, is a science club for girls. Any girl who is interested and has maintained a C average in science is eligible for membership. During the school year many experts in the field of vocational guidance give talks to the group and often the members take interesting field trips to such places as the court house, a mortuary, the Northwestern, the clinic, and the dental laboratory.

If you have seen Atlas striding confidently down the hall with the world on his shoulders, or Hercules miraculously maneuvering himself through the dense clouds toward 309, or even Jupiter himself staring critically at O. H. S. from his citadel, ease your mind about your sanity. These characters are merely loyal workers in Latin Club preparing for one of the numerous skits staged every other Thursday for the amusement and enlightenment of their fellow members. Since the purpose of this club is to instill (painlessly) in its members an appreciation of the Latin language and culture, the meetings are devoted to the presentation of short, humorous skits, quiz programs, and games pertaining to Roman life or Roman mythology.

The highlight of the year was the banquet on March 13. Anthony and Cleopatra, as host and hostess, royally entertained their subjects throughout the eventful evening. Indeed, judging by the club, Latin is anything but dead!

Onawah, open to all girls with a B average in English, has an E. C. A. period jammed full of music, drama, literature, laughs, talks, and parties. The programs, planned by the girls, cover a wide range of interests. The annual initiation tea, a gala affair, is one of the highlights of the club year. Another activity that takes the spotlight is the promotion of an essay contest. In addition, Onawah presents a book each year to the Reference Library . . . Fun, followed with one event right after the other, fills the club year to the brim.

MASQUE

"One of the best clubs in school", says the advisor, Miss Olive Davenport, and the one hundred and some members heartily agree. With two plays to produce during each school year, they're really busy people and most of them love every minute of it . . . Last fall, to give more members a chance to act and direct, three one-act plays were presented in place of the usual three-act play — and were presented very well, too: HAPPY JOURNEY, THE VALIANT, and IF MEN PLAYED CARDS AS WOMEN DO. All three plays were superbly acted and directed . . . The spring play, entitled — appropriately enough — AND CAME THE SPRING, was a comedy of family life and ideal for high school production. The large audiences found it highly entertaining.

After each play is over and the money has been counted, there is always a party for the entire cast to look forward to — celebrating a job well done!

It's an award! Yes, it's an award given for Leadership, Good Citizenship, and Scholarship. In fact, the highest honor attainable in our school is membership in this society. The purpose of O'Neil is to promote in all ways interest and active participation in the extra-curricular activities carried on in O. H. S. The two major projects of the group are to plan and direct the annual award day and to manage the class elections each semester. Between times the society is busy raising money to make these activities possible.

The society was founded in honor of A. B. O'Neil, principal of Oshkosh High School from 1901 to 1925. To Mr. O'Neil's own high standards of character and leadership this club is a fitting memorial.

Pythagorean Council provides an excellent opportunity for those who are interested to study phases of Math that must be omitted from regular class work because of lack of time. The club is an active one and has made many contributions to the school: it presented the footlights for the stage in the auditorium, it is responsible for the attractive mural in room 306, and it purchased the transit and the first slide rules for class use. Later special study groups were set up to learn the use of the slide rule. Also, the group sponsors the spelling bee, held annually since 1938, and each semester it gives an Algebra award. A banquet for actives and alumni was held on the first Monday of the second semester and it was really a gala event!

Our high school has an excellent safety program. The Safety Council, with a membership of approximately forty-three students, promotes safety in the school area and in the home. The Council keeps accurate records of all accidents requiring medical attention or which keep students out of school for a half day or longer. Members of the Council must maintain at least a C average and must be of good character.

Another safety group in the school is the Safety Patrol. The patrol boys select a captain, two lieutenants, and an adjutant and their special job is to help control traffic at various points both before and after school . . . This year the group has had excellent cooperation on the part of the students which simplifies the work of the patrol boys.

Bottom Row: Florsheim, Kellerman, Peckman, Spanbauer, Piotrowski, Rhyner, Hugo, Nolan, Bathke, Miller.

In January, 1930, Dean Harriet Fritsche, with the help of the student body, organized the Student Council whose purpose is to promote in all ways the best interests of the school. The Council is actually the link between the administration and the student body. The members who are elected from each home room, meet regularly to discuss school problems. They plan and direct the magazine sales campaign, the assembly programs, and the all-school parties — four such parties are sponsored by the Council each year.

Last year the Oshkosh High School Student Council was host to the State Student Council convention. This "put Oshkosh on the map" — to use Mrs. Fritsche's own words. It was, indeed, a high honor to be bestowed upon our school. Recently our Council joined the National Student Council Convention.

A lustily shouted "Fore!" and a high, straight tee-off marked the beginning of an eventful year for Theta Epsilon when an exciting golf tournament was used as the theme for the annual initiation party last September. The purpose of this organization — the development of social graces and leadership qualities in its members — was carried out during the year as the girls took turns at planning and presenting club programs. Several worthy projects were sponsored — one, for example, was the sale of candy bars at basketball games. The most colorful as well as the most successful event of the year was the Mother's Day tea which was held on May 7.

THE INDIANS' TRAIL

SEPTEMBER

September comes;
School days are here;
Seniors prepare
For their final year.

The football season
Has begun.
The games this year
Were really fun.
We came out second
So you see
We're not as bad
As we used to be.

OCTOBER

Comedies, dramas —
Sad and gay —
Are all portrayed
In the Masque Club play.

Goodbye, good luck
To Mr. Fell.
We all agree
That he is swell!

To Principal Evans
A hearty "hello!"
His assembly talks
Are as good as a show.

Put on your tie
And your Sunday pants
And follow the gang
To the all-school dance

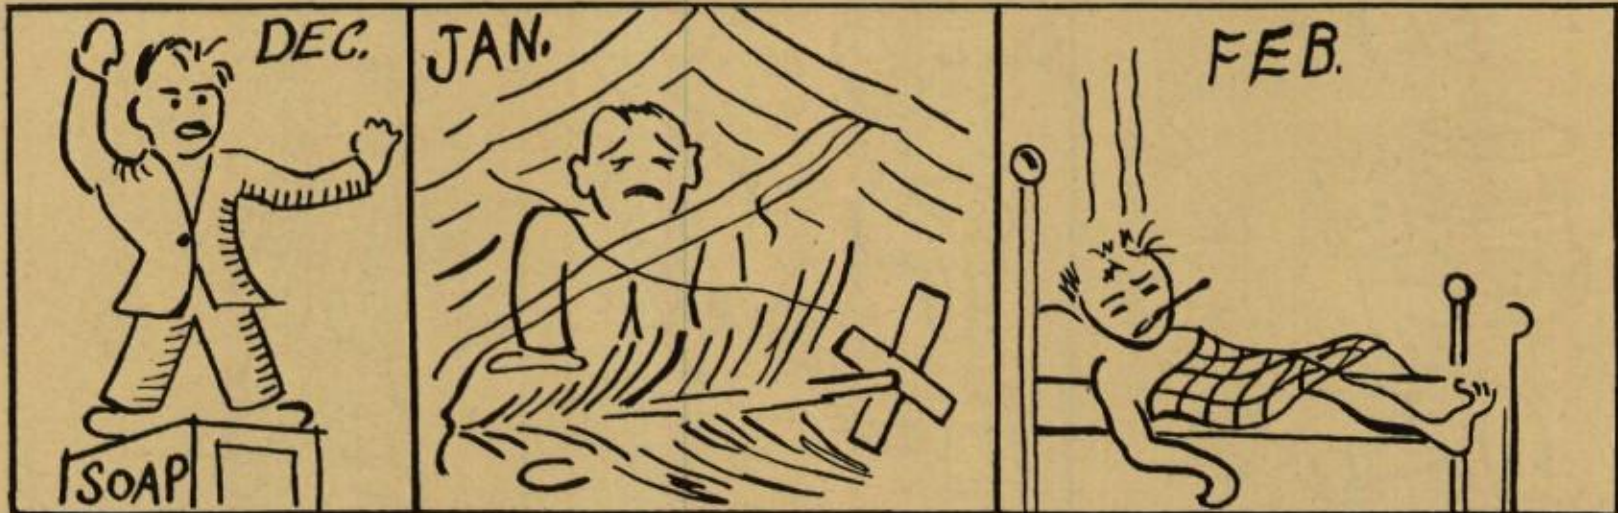

NOVEMBER

Plans for the Homecoming Game were great,
But the weatherman
Wouldn't cooperate.

The homerooms all
Were gaily dressed —
(The judges couldn't Decide the best!)

Came Student Councils
From over the state,
And we opened our homes
To the delegates.

A teachers' convention —
Oh goodie! Oh good!
I'd have one each day
In the week, if I could!

DECEMBER

Petitions shuffle,
Kids debate
About their favorite Candidate
Votes are cast
And speeches done;
We can be sure
The best man won.

At spelling bees
We're not so dumb;
We can even spell
Kryzanthemum!

What's this? Why, need
You ask at all?
It is the start
Of basketball.

Triumphant even In defeat —
We set some records
Hard to beat!

Christmas comes;
Vacation starts
Bringing joy
To all our hearts!

JANUARY

Alas! Alack!
And lack-a-day!
Vacation's over,
So's our play!

A swanky night club
Was the theme;
The Senior Prom
Was on the beam.

Envious eyes
As diplomas rustle;
January Grads make
Mid-year bustle.

FEBRUARY

The words most often Heard were these:
"Will you take one Subscription, please?"

Boxing matches
Brought students in masses,
(If only because They got out of classes.)

MARCH

The Ides of March —
It's spring! And back
Come bouncing heroes
Of the track.

I stayed home
A day or two
'Cause I was sick
In bed with 'flu'.
I tried a week
To get back in,
But Nurse just sent Me home ag'in!

Never in great Caesar's day,
(I'll have you Know this, Bub,)
Have banquets
Been as gorgeous As that of Latin Club!

APRIL

The Senior play
Was quite the things;
A Broadway hit:
"And Came the Spring."

The fire bell rings
Waking me from my dreams;
They know how to pick Cold days, it seems.
Inside I wonder,
As I get my breath,
Is it better to burn
Or freeze to death?

MAY

Prom days are here —
Bright times and gay —
The biggest event
In the month of May!

This month our favorite
Indoor sport
Is to elect
A Queen and Court.

Debates, themes and Essays done;
The final goal
We sought is won.
Banquets, balls,
And Senior plays
Mark the end
Of High School days!

GIRLS GLEE CLUB

The belief that "Music hath charms—" is shared by many students at O. H. S. Increasing numbers of them are participating actively in such events as the class "sings" and in the Music for Enjoyment groups. The "Pop" concerts — an innovation this year — have attracted wide attention and have played to large audiences. . . New opportunities for girls are open in the Girls' Drum Corps and the Baton Twirlers . . . The A Cappella Choir has distinguished itself throughout the state for its fine performances. . . Every student in school is given an opportunity to participate in some phase of music.

AMERICAN LEGION CONTEST

Oshkosh High School was well represented in the tenth annual American Legion Oratorical Contest. On March third an elimination contest for our own students was held and the winner, Jane Blahnik, represented our school in the Sixth Congressional district where she won first place. A week later she received a second rating in the regional contest at Marinette. . . . The title of Jane's oration was "The Constitution and Its People". The Public Speaking class acted as the organizing agency. . . . Oshkosh has had an entry in each of the ten contests and the participating students have gained better speaking abilities and a deeper understanding of our constitution.
